

LINK HANGER

Strong, simple and secure, the Link Hanger is a very popular solution, used by museums and galleries large and small including the Tate galleries, for hanging larger works of art up to 150kg in weight, and has been designed to accommodate deeper rebated frames as well as flat backed frames.

Made up of three key parts; the wall plate, the frame plate and the link that joins the two, which provides an immensely strong support between wall and frame and automatically bridges the gap that is so often found on older, heavy artworks with large frames.

The Link Hanger has a 'bronzed' finish that blends quietly with the shadows behind the artwork, and incorporates measures to improve security, allow for adjustment during installation or connect with storage options when not on display. Sold in pairs.
